

Leadership Luncheon Lecture

Leadership through Adversity

During the last five years, the Hawaii Department of Education has stepped up to the challenges by doing hard and complex work. Across the country, the public education system is one of the most targeted issues in the spotlight. Transformation and change are always tough. During her time as Superintendent, Kathryn Matayoshi has navigated the push and pull of external forces - national and federal currents, state and local politics, ups and downs of economy and budget - and balancing the needs of students, teachers, educational leaders.

Kathryn Matayoshi

Kathryn Matayoshi was named Superintendent in 2010. Prior to her appointment, she served as acting and interim Superintendent and Deputy Superintendent. Matayoshi, an attorney, came to the Department following a successful career in the private, government and nonprofit sectors - including executive director of the Hawaii Business Roundtable; president and chief executive officer, Community Links Hawaii; member of the City and County of Honolulu Board of Water Supply; and director of the state Department of Commerce and Consumer Affairs. She also held positions at Hawaiian Electric Company, Inc., the law firm Goodsill Anderson Quinn & Stifel, and served as a law clerk for U.S. District Court Judge Samuel P. King. A Hilo High alumna, Matayoshi holds a juris doctor degree from the University of California, Hastings College of the Law, and a bachelor's degree from Carleton College.

Leadership Luncheon Lecture Series

This is a new seminar series designed to fit into the busy schedules of local leaders in the public and private sectors.

The 21st century will present new challenges to leaders the world over. Our mission at APC is to give business and government leaders of the Asia-Pacific community the knowledge and inspiration they need to cope with the effects of burgeoning populations, increasing development, and increasingly volatile international interactions.

We invite you to come and gain insight into the changes sweeping this important region, and to broaden your perspective on global economics, politics, business, and environmental issues. For the latest luncheon lecture series schedule, please visit <http://www.apchawaii.org> or call (808) 942-0698.

APC is a non-profit, educational institution, established 2005. Other programs include intensive courses in Intercultural Leadership, as well as short-term workshops and certificate programs designed for students to broaden their cross-cultural perspective on leadership styles and issues in the Asia-Pacific region.
