

Leadership Luncheon Lecture

Lessons Learned on Life & Leadership

Connie Lau shares valuable lessons she learned while holding leadership roles in some of Hawaii's largest companies and non-profit organizations.

Connie Lau

Connie Lau, born and raised in Hawaii, is president and chief executive officer of Hawaiian Electric Industries (HEI), the largest publicly held company in Hawaii, and former president and chief executive officer of American Savings Bank, the state's third largest bank. Ms. Lau serves on several local school and professional boards, as well as national boards, including the Electric Power Research Institute, the Edison Electric Institute, and the Associated Electrical & Gas Insurance Services. She also chairs the National Infrastructure Advisory Council (NIAC) which advises President Barack Obama on the security of the 16 critical infrastructure sectors and their information systems, including both the energy and financial services sectors. Named 2011 Woman of the Year by the Women's Council on Energy and the Environment in Washington, D.C., Ms. Lau was also named Pacific Business News (PBN)'s 2004 Hawaii Business Leader of the Year, and in 2013, she was named one of PBN's 10 to Watch for her leadership in clean energy and transportation.

Leadership Luncheon Lecture Series

This is a new seminar series designed to fit into the busy schedules of local leaders in the public and private sectors.

The 21st century will present new challenges to leaders the world over. Our mission at APC is to give business and government leaders of the Asia-Pacific community the knowledge and inspiration they need to cope with the effects of burgeoning populations, increasing development, and increasingly volatile international interactions.

We invite you to come and gain insight into the changes sweeping this important region, and to broaden your perspective on global economics, politics, business, and environmental issues. For the latest luncheon lecture series schedule, please visit <http://www.apchawaii.org> or call (808) 942-0698.

APC is a non-profit, educational institution, established 2005. Other programs include intensive courses in a Intercultural Leadership, as well as short-term workshops and certificate programs designed for students to broaden their cross-cultural perspective on leadership styles and issues in the Asia-Pacific region.
